

Investiture Ceremony

“He who would learn to fly one day must first learn to stand and walk and run.....”

-Friederich Nietzsche

Here at The Asian School we want our children to fly which is why we give them additional responsibility thereby helping them to overcome their fears and emerge as great leaders.

This idea would transform their entire career. Being a leader is not about being liked, it's about doing what is right. So, many leaders are afraid of conflict and they have a deep seeded need to be popular and cherished. They hate roughing feathers and making waves. They are insecure and not so comfortable living in their own skin. But, great leaders are different. They fearlessly take tough calls. They take on responsibilities for their decisions right or wrong instead of passing the buck. They represent maturity. They speak truth, they run their own race, making the right decisions and worrying little about public opinion. They prove that the price of greatness is responsibility; extra ordinary leadership is balance between tender yet tough, compassion yet courage, part saint part warrior, friendly yet firm. Acceptance of responsibility is a reflection of our attitude and the environment we operate in.
