

Basant Panchami Celebration at The Asian Acres

'Basant' the festival that brings joy was welcomed by the Asianites on the 4th feb, 2014 with the lighting of the ceremonial lamp by the Principal.

It is believed that on Basant Panchmi Goddess Saraswati, The goddess of knowledge & Arts was born it is therefore natural to celebrate this auspicious day in schools. 'Basant' heralds the beginning of the spring season & the advent could be felt in the air with the vibrant programme that began with Saraswati Vandana. Poetry recitation, speeches and dance performance by the students, depicting the mood of the festival, mesmerized everyone & seemed to transport them to another world spreading gaiety all around.

Later the names of winners in various art competitions were announced:

Simmi Dhir's painting was selected for the calendar 2014 by the Times of India & UREDA.

Utsav Khadka's painting was selected for the calendar 2014 by International Career Studies, Lucknow.

Rishi S. Karandikar won the 3rd prize, Ayushi Sharma, Anvita Singhal & Muskan Goyal won the consolation prize in an art competition organized by P.C.R.A (Oil India).

The festivities concluded with the speech by the principal where he prayed to the goddess Saraswati to remove ignorance & lethargy & bestow upon all Asianites more wisdom & success.
